Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, see Paper No. 6, filed November 19, 2003, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-12 have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Barton et al. (US 6,233,389). The indicated allowability of claims 3-10 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Yu (US 5,410,709). Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-3 and 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Barton et al. (US 6,233,389).

1. Regarding claims 1-2 and 11-12, Barton discloses an adaptive transport decoder (all items of Figure 1; abstract, lines 1-13) comprising a source of first and second streams of packets each including a payload and each stream having a different transport protocol (col. 3, lines 37-39; note: the packet format for DSS and ATCS or DBS differ), and a protocol decoder (item 101; col. 2, lines 4-14; col. 3, lines 32-43) for extracting payloads from the packets (col. 3, lines 46-49) of a select packet stream.

Art Unit: 2666

2. Regarding claims 3 and 10, the protocol decoder has an inherent processor and inherent control programs to select and decode the packets of different formats and change the type of decoding performed (col. 3, lines 20-23 and 32-49).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 4-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Barton et al. as applied to claim 3 above, and further in view of Yu (US 5,410,709).

3. Regarding claims 4-9, Barton does not disclose that the first and second control programs comprise a packet handler, several interrupt drivers and an interrupt vector containing a pointer to an interrupt driver, and reallocating a buffer. Yu discloses a controlling system (Figure 1) that has interrupt vectors for pointing to stored control information (col. 4, line 67 through col. 5, line

Art Unit: 2666

7) and user information (Figure 2b). The control programs are chosen using a third control program (col. 5, lines 10-15) and a buffer is reallocated (Figure 3a, step MLX DR., "index into interrupt"). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have a interrupt drivers and interrupt vectors for pointing to memory locations and reallocate memory locations to a buffer in the invention of Barton in order to appropriately invoke control information at designated times.
